RADIO STATIONS TO LEAVE AIR JULY 20 IN CD TEST

Every radio and TV station in the United States will go off the air at 3:10 p. m. (EST) on July 20.

For the next 15 minutes the only broadcasting in the nation will be done by 1,250 stations which have joined the Federal Civil Defense Administration's "Conelrad" plan for emergency broadcasting.

All of these stations will broadcast on one of the two civil defense frequencies (640 or 1240 kilocycles). They will use only special material prepared for Operation Alert, 1956.

It will be the first full-fledged test of the ability of the Conelrad stations to reach the public with the all-important civil defense broadcasts which will be the nation's only broadcast source of official information and instructions in event of an enemy air attack.

Conelrad (Plan for Control of Electromagnetic Radiation) is a system devised by the Air Force, the broadcasting industry and the Federal government to make possible the vital broadcasting of official information and civil defense instructions in times of emergency. Under normal broadcasting, it would be possible for an enemy plane to tune its direction finder to a station broadcasting in a target city and "ride the beam" right into its target.

Under the Conelrad plan, all stations sign off the air when an alert is signaled. Conelrad stations then reduce power, change their broadcasting frequency to 640 or 1240 kilocycles and return to the air.

Conelrad stations in each city form a cluster. These stations broadcast a common program, with each of the cluster stations on the air for only a few seconds at a time. The frequent switching from one station to another makes it impossible for a bomber pilot to use the radio signals for navigation purposes.

In smaller communities, where only one station is in the Conelrad system, it will broadcast at either 640 or 1240 kc for a short period, then be off the air for a number of minutes. The on-the-air, off-the-air pattern will continue until the end of the Conelrad drill on July 20.

Radio stations will publicize the Conelrad drill in advance, warning listeners to expect the interruption of normal broadcasting to shut down and tune to 640 or 1240 on home radio sets.

All motorists are urged to pull to the side of the road and seek shelter during this period.

Thank you,
O. T. Rozelle

FIRE DESTROYS GILEAD FARMSTAND ON MONDAY

A fire starting near an attic chimney destroyed the farm homestead of Larry Losier on the north side of the Androscoggin River in Gilead Monday morning.

Tenants living on the first floor discovered the fire on the roof. They had to travel two miles to telephone an alarm.

The Bethel fire department was called at 8:15 a. m. and fought the blaze with the Gilead fire department.

The house was nearly destroyed before firemen arrived, and the barn had been ignited by sparks carried on a high wind. Small fires started in the woods in back of the buildings but were quickly extinguished.

Some of the furniture on the first floor of the house was saved. Mr Losier, who lived alone on the second floor, was unable to save any household furnishings.

Ten tons of pressed hay and some farm machinery were destroyed. A tractor was saved. No livestock was kept in the barn at the time of the fire.

The loss was estimated at $6,000. There is some insurance.

THE GEHRING HOME at the head of Broad Street, well known as the home of the late Dr. John George Gehring. For many years the doctor treated patients afflicted with nervous diseases coming from the East and Middle West. This beautiful estate will be used by the National Training Laboratories of Washington, D. C., and Bethel for some of their sessions.

GEHRING HOMESTEAD NOW OWNED BY NTL

Last week, the Gehring Homestead Property, at the South End of Broad Street, here in Bethel, acquired new ownership. The Trustees of the estate of the late William Bingham, 2nd, conveyed to the National Training Laboratories the Gehring House, the greenhouse the woodshed, and garage, together with certain adjoining parcels of land. The property, which is being put into first-class repair and furnished with modern furniture brought from the Hotel Martinique, in Washington, D. C., will be used by NTL to house participants in three-day institutes, one- or two-week laboratories, and later this summer as the setting for meetings of its own Executive Committee, its Advisory Board, and its Program and Planning Committee.

As time goes on and plans evolve, it is conceivable that the property may be rented to outside groups for use as a conference site, where participants will be housed, take their meals, and attend meetings all under the same roof.

The National Training Laboratories by virtue of the purchase of the Gehring Homestead property, is very happy to become after ten years a permanent part of the Bethel community and it hopes to maintain this beautiful mansion and grounds as they were in the past.

8TH ANNUAL BETHEL BAZAAR JULY 28

As the young fry would say, "We can hardly wait"! For what? For the annual Bethel Bazaar, to be held on the common Saturday, July 28, starting at ten a. m. The Bazaar itself offers a not-to-be-forgotten day of fun and excitement. The common will buzz with activities to be participated in by young and old. The Lions Club will sell chances on a bountiful basket of food staples; The Eleanor Gordon Guild will sell ice cream and grabs for youngsters; the Legion Auxiliary will preside over a Fancy Work table; the boys of the 4-H will offer milk at their milk bar while the 4-H girls will sell kool-aid and lemonade; the Pleasant Valley Grange will have a hot dog stand; the Extension Service will have a snack bar with coffee, sandwiches, and doughnuts; and the W. S. C. S. will conduct a food sale, for delicacies to be taken home after you've eaten all you can on the grounds! Blake MacKay will run a ring toss game, fun for the child of all the family. Several organizations, which previously have run booths or games, have not yet announced their plans for this year but Dana C Douglass Jr., general chairman of the Bazaar sincerely hopes that all organizations of the community are planning to join in this effort.

Highlight of the early evening will be the Bean Supper, beginning at 5 p. m., sponsored jointly by the Methodist Men's Brotherhood, the P. T. A. and the Guild of West Parish Church. This is a wonderful opportunity for a family outing, ending with a treat in the world for Momma, a meal out!

At five o'clock also there will be a parade, starting from the common. Norma Jodrey, Parade Chairman, urges all youngsters and all organizations and businesses to enter what is hoped will be the biggest-and-best-yet parade. Walter Marcuse will direct the band and the various entries will be judged by three Bethel Inn guests: James A Veasey of Tulsa, Okla., Chas J. Watson of Glencoe, Ill., and Mrs Harry N Allen of New York. Prizes will be awarded for individuals, floats, bicycles, doll carriages. Moreover, each parade participant, prize winner or not, will be given a memento of the event.

This is in general then the line-up for Saturday, July 28 or the following Saturday in the event of rain. The day promises to be a huge one for all. Perhaps the very best part of it will be in remembering that the entire proceeds of the day go to local community welfare projects. Bethel citizens cordially invite all their summer friends to join them in this big event.

GOVERNMENT TAX POLICIES PENALIZE EMPLOYEES

Uncle Sam's tax policies penalize the employee who works overtime, the worker who produces more, the salesman who makes more sales, a spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers has declared.

According of Wm. J Grede, chairman of the NAM's Taxation Committee, this is unfair because "The American tradition, of course, is always to reward overtime, and reward extra effort, and give bonuses for increased sales." Mr Grede said that America's present discriminatory income surtax rates do "just the opposite."

"As you increase your productivity, as you increase your income either through more hours of work or through more effective work, or through your own ingenuity, the government says you must pay more and more taxes," he said. "The more you produce, the bigger proportionately is the rate and even bigger is the percentage that the government takes."

Mr Grede, who is president of Grede Foundries, Inc., Milwaukee, Wisconsin, was interviewed by John B Hughes, public affairs commentator, during NAM's "It's YOUR Business!" radio series over the nationwide American Broadcasting Company network. The Milwaukee industrialist declared that a presidential election year is the time to face the issue of tax reduction, and that it's "entirely practical to reduce taxes during the current fiscal year."

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Four suggestions to aid Maine survivors of deceased vetreans in filing claims for death compensation and pension were offered today by M L Stoddard, Manager, Veterans Administration Center, Togus, Maine.

Stoddard said the Veterans Administration Center at Togus now processes new claims for death benefits under a recent VA decentralization program. Formerly, these claims had to be sent to Philadelphia for processing.

By following these four suggestions survivors will expedite the payment or rejection of claims, Stoddard said. The hints are:

1. If the veteran's death certificate does not contain a statement as to the cause of death, it should be accompanied by a certificate from the attending physician showing the dates of treatment and cause of death.

2. A widow filing a claim should furnish the record of her marriage to the veteran. If she or the veteran were previously married, she should furnish copies of death or divorce certificates to establish that previous marriages were dissolved.

3. If minor children are among the survivors, birth or baptismal records are required, containing the names of both parents and date of birth. If the children were adopted, a copy of the court order of adoption is needed.

4. Parents filing a claim must establish their relationship to the veteran by furnishing VA with a certified copy of the veteran's birth or baptismal certificate containing the names of both parents and evidence of their dependency.

Stoddard said this evidence is required by the laws governing compensation and pension payments. If the documents were furnished to VA during veteran's life-time, duplicates are not needed after his death.

KEEPING POULTRY COOL IS IMPORTANT IN SUMMER

Even in Maine's relatively cool climate, keeping poultry comfortable in the summer is important, says Harry Whelden, Jr., Extension Service poultry specialist. Letting the heat out of poultry houses, providing additional waterer space, and using a fairly thin litter will help.

Flirting With Danger is KID STUFF

It's great to be alive—and especially in vacation-time. But staying alive often depends on how quickly a driver responds to highway warning signs.

Driving on crowded holiday roads is a man-sized job that demands full attention. It calls for a good grip on the wheel, a ready foot for the brake, a mind alert for instant danger.

In fact, if more drivers took their driving habits and other people's safety as seriously as they take their pleasure—sudden death would not take the lives of so many innocent victims.

An official public service message prepared by The Advertising Council in cooperation with the National Safety Council.

CARELESS DRIVING IS KID STUFF

ACROSS the DESK

Ideas from other editors

From the Granite State News, Wolfeboro, N. H.: Speaking of juvenile delinquency, which we were not, it often seems that parents are perhaps the greatest source of juvenile delinquency. A father who runs his car for fifteen days on tag-day plates and boasts about it to his family; the parent who always has a mean word for every police officer, Trooper and Conservation Officer, the father who takes short trout or more fish than his legal limit; some gravel or loam or a Christmas tree or a few bean poles; the father or mother who drive home with a firm beer breath; the parents who stage solid family rows with loud language and four letter words are setting their children up in the business of becoming juvenile delinquents.

The Father who has no time for his son and the mother who has no time for her daughter are setting them onto the road to delinquency.

The Father who comes into Traffic Court with a chip on his shoulder when his son is picked up on a motor vehicle violation charge and proceeds to tell the Judge that every one is out of step except his Jimmy, is giving Jimmy the false impression that he can always get away with violations. When and if Jimmy is pulled out of a wrecked car some night, cooling off fast and ready for the embalming table, it is the Father and not Jimmy who is basically to blame.

The Mother who has a boy friend and who trains her daughters to help cover up for her, has no reason to be surprised when her daughters turn out to be bobby sox tramps, with fewer inhibitions than drunk Parisian ladies of pleasure.

Parents who have such unattractive homes that home is the last place that a boy or girl wants to go after school is over, are pushing the youngsters straight into trouble.

Of course, there are exceptions, when youngsters from good homes, reared by conscientious parents, go bad. But these exceptions simply go to prove the rule.

The longer we live, the more sympathy we have with boys and girls that are in trouble and the less sympathy we have with the parents. In the majority of cases, it is the parent who should go to Reform School and not the child.

From the Chickasha Star, Chickasha, Okla.: After all the revolutionary changes which have taken place in the advertising world in the last ten years, the newspaper—it is now proven—remains the best medium of advertising.

The proof is found in the lineage figures. In spite of the competition from new media, newspaper advertising continues to grow.

'HEY, MISTER'

Economic Highlights . . . . .

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Every now and then some American community finds itself in deep economic trouble—a possibility that is greatest in areas which are heavily dependent on one industrial company or one farm crop for their wherewithal. Then, as the Wall Street Journal points out, varied corners of community action are open. A common one is to turn to the government for assistance, and have the town named a "distressed area." But this, even if successful, usually turns out to be only a palliative. And, the paper says, "the palliative, by removing the sense of urgency, has too often deterred the people themselves from building their community better."

Another course of action is for the community to get down to work and solve its problems by its own efforts. An outstanding example of this is South Bend, Indiana. John D. Williams, also writing in the Wall Street Journal, tells what has been done there.

For a century, South Bend was pretty much a one-company town, and Studebaker (now Studebaker-Packard) was the company. If Studebaker was doing well, the town did well. If Studebaker suffered hard times and cut the payroll, the town felt that in its vitals.

Studebaker, together with some other motor companies, has been undergoing financial storms. According to Mr Williams, it "is having the toughest time of its century." South Bend naturally hopes the company will come back and prosper. But, important as Studebaker is to South Bend, it is no longer the dominant factor. As an ex-mayor told Mr Williams, "There's not that desperate feeling any more."

This change in attitude stems from the fact that South Bend is not now a one-company town. Some three years ago a committee was established and a delegation was sent to Birmingham, Alabama, to study that city's extremely successful booster group. Then $385,000 was raised to promote the South Bend area "as a good place for new business."

The going wasn't easy. In the first year, not even one new company was gained. A blow was suffered when the Singer Manufacturing Company moved elsewhere. The committee redoubled its efforts. Person-to-person sales talks were made to likely prospects. One factory came in. Then another. Mr Williams writes, "And so the parade grew, each little bit adding up to a lot."

All in all, about 24 new companies have come to South Bend and the neighboring town of Mishawaka. Their products include doors, industrial displays, furniture, sun glasses, tools, plastic boats and so on. The committee is still hard at work, and ambitious plans are in being for new and modern industrial areas.

As a result, despite Studebaker's troubles and greatly reduced employment, South Bend savings deposits, retail sales, residential construction and other standard barometers of economic conditions are holding up and in some cases showing gains. South Bend people, Mr Williams reports, are "convinced they've weathered their worst economic storms; the town is shored up, battened down and determined to stay prosperous."

The moral is expressed in the last line of the Wall Street Journal's editorial: "It remains true that whatever people build for themselves is the best built."

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Dunkirk, N. Y., Observer: "Let private industry handle the Niagara hydroelectric project and pay its taxes. Otherwise, if a tax-exempt government agency takes over, the taxes it escapes will be collected from the rest of us."

Appleton, Minn., Tribune: "Walter P. Carroll, a 44-year-old farmer was sent to jail on a contempt of court charge because he didn't think it was any of the federal government's business to tell him how many acres of crops he could plant on his own farm. Maybe he was wrong about being so stubborn in this regard. Maybe he is not a martyr for refusing to go along with the common herd. But maybe also, Walter Carroll remembers that protecting individual rights and freedoms wasn't an important issue to the men who founded this nation."

IN ENGLAND WITH MISS LAURA WILSON

I went to see another boat race today. They did the long course because there were so many entries. The boats started at Prebend's Bridge at ten second intervals. It made it more interesting than usual because there were boats going by all the time. The only trouble was that we could not see who was winning. Each boat was timed. I wish that I had coxed now for Mary's crew. It looks like so much fun. You see, a light person is carried along to steer the boat and keep the rowers together by yelling "In, Out, In, Out," or something else which will fit the rhythm. This afternoon one cox was saying — "Going home, Going home!"

Well, this next week I hibernate with my books and my tea. U. S. scholarship coming up!

June 17.

This past week has been hectic. We have rehearsed "Pinafore" every morning from 9:00 to 12:30 and every evening from 6:00 to 10:00. It is very difficult to throw an opera, even if it is only Gilbert and Sullivan, together in one week. We have had to learn the music, the words, and the action, all at once. It is practically impossible, believe me!

Besides, I have had plenty to do in the afternoons as well. I guess that I have told you that I spent one afternoon at Julia Ann's house in Rhiwcliffe, which is a small, typical English village near Durham. Ann is getting married this summer so she has been busy this spring getting ready. It is a large house which is connected directly to the house next to it. The row of houses have quite large yards in front with each yard separated from the next by a hedge.

Tuesday I went to the Cathedral with Onslp. It was rather nice, for we followed a group of tourists around. They had a man telling them about different things. We were also shown the crypt where the monks used to drink their (well, I shall not print it, but it begins with b, ends with r, and has two o's in the middle)! A famous Celtic drink.

The next day you have heard about punting etc. The following day was most enjoyable. The third year History students invited their lecturers to a dinner at the Three Tuns. Ralph (the other Fulbright student at Durham) and I were invited as well, which I think was very nice of them. I sat by an archaeology professor who can talk about nothing but archaeology. The first thing he said when he sat down was "we have just found a new bath house. It may answer a great many questions we have about Roman bath houses." Now what do you say to a statement like that? Well, I don't know what you say. I say nothing and turn quickly to the person on my other side, a nice young Mr Lowe, who says a much more encouraging something. "Well, Miss Wilson, I don't seem to have come across you this year." To which I could reply—"I went to a few of your lectures on British foreign policy." And we were off. Across the table was Mr Offler, my moral tutor's husband. He, for some unknown reason, knew that I was to be singing in "Pinafore." He also had interesting stories about Italy during the war when American soldiers were driving 60 miles an hour on the right hand side of the road and English were driving 30 miles an hour on the left hand side of the road. Where the English soldiers agreed to call lorries, trucks and the American soldiers agreed to call gasoline, petrol. They even carried it so far that one English fellow named Laurie was called Truck until the end of the war.

Peter took me out to Lumley Castle Saturday evening where some of the University students live. They were having a dance. You have no idea how nice it is to go into a castle that is being lived in. As we approached the castle by way of the stately drive, we could hear music, see the decorations in the windows. The rooms are spacious and are panelled. The ceilings have very interesting carvings on them. So you can say that I danced in a beautiful Castle ball room!

June 23.

June Week has come and gone. June Week is the week following finals when the students are waiting to hear the results. To fill in the time everyone gives a party or puts on an entertainment. That is where "HMS Pinafore" fitted in. We did it Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday nights. There was an orchestra of twenty-five pieces which almost drowned us, but not quite.

Monday evening after the performance we all feverishly removed our make-up and went to the castle where the students there had a night-club going full swing. It was rather unsuccessful at first because I was in a foursome which was dominated by the other girl. However, I was eventually rescued by Tom Baker, my dragoon, who can dance divinely. He was successful in persuading me to dance with him for the remainder of the evening.

NAM COMMENDS UNION STAND ON NIAGARA RIVER POWER PROJECT

The National Association of Manufacturers has commended a labor union for the strong stand it has taken against the development of the Niagara River power project by the federal government.

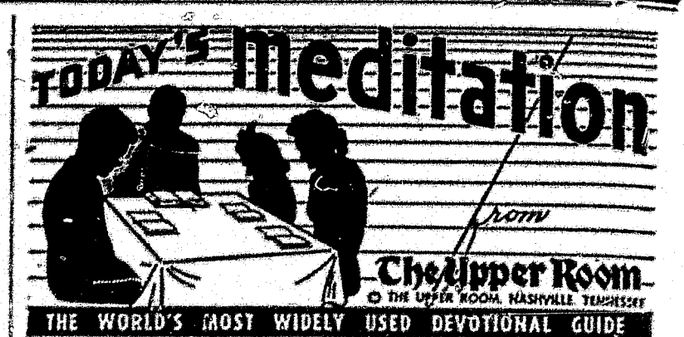
In a telegram to the New York State Association of Electrical Workers (AFL), Nils G. Parker, president of the NAM, praised the union's "position set forth in a full page advertisement headed 'Labor Fears Government Development of Niagara' which appeared in a New York Sunday newspaper."

"Organizations of every character in this country," Mr Parker wired Wilson Wyatt, president of the union, "can do no less than support the editorial policy of American labor and speak out against the establishment of a government agency for the purpose of competing with private industry and taking away from the taxpayers money to develop further the power at Niagara Falls which private industry and workers of America can develop and produce at a profit to the taxpayers and with jobs and payrolls for thousands of workers."

"Your statement that American people of every class do not want more socialism is right," the NAM president said, "but it is a tragic fact that a large and ever-growing number of them do not realize the basic argument of free enterprise versus socialism. If all of our citizens and voters thinking in regard to their economic and social problems the preservation of our freedoms and the future of this nation are assured."

The union advertisement was in the form of an open letter to the House of Representatives and urged that help to defray the so-called Niagara public power bill. The New York State Association of Electrical Workers has in the past been active in all branches of industry

TODAY'S meditation



Thursday, July 19

Read Matthew 5:43-48.

Be ye therefore perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect. (Matthew 5:48.)

TO be perfect is so sublime a goal that instead of kindling our enthusiasm it sometimes slows down vigilance, deadens the spirit, unnerves the will. The goal appears so inaccessible we think the best thing to do is to turn our eyes from such heights.

It is no easy task for us to fulfil our Master's word, "Be ye.... perfect, even as your Father which is in heaven is perfect." We can accomplish it, however, if we strive to be perfect on the plane of sonship as God is perfect on the plane of fatherhood. Our doubts disappear and hope returns in the light of a truth which is not impossible for us to attain.

It is not enough for us to consider the majesty and power and greatness of God. We are to seek the Lord will all diligence and lay claim to sonship with the Father through Jesus Christ, our Redeemer.

Prayer

O Lord, our goal is to be perfect in Thee. In our own strength we can never achieve this blessed hope. We come to Thee. Guard and guide our thoughts that Thy strength may be made perfect in weakness. In the name of Christ, in whom we have hope of achieving perfection. Amen.

Today upon a bus, I saw a lovely maid with golden hair;
I envied her—she seemed so gay and wished I were as fair
When suddenly she rose to leave, I saw her hobble down the aisle;
She had one foot and wore a crutch, but as she passed, a smile
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine;
I have two feet—the world is mine!'
And then I stopped to buy some sweets. The lad who sold them Has such charm. I talked with him he said to me:
"It's nice to talk with folks like you.
"You see," said he, "I'm blind."
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine;
I have two eyes, the world is mine!'
Then, walking down the street, I saw a child with eyes of blue.
He stood and watched the others play; it seemed he knew not what to do.
I stopped for a moment, then I said: "Why don't you join the others, dear?"
He looked ahead without a word,
then I knew he could not hear.
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine;
I have two ears—the world is mine!'
With feet to take me where I'd go;
With eyes to see the sunset's glow,
With ears to hear what I would know—
Oh, God, forgive me when I whine;
I'm blessed, indeed! The world is mine.

YOU CAN'T CLIP A TV PROGRAM

Dorothy Kilgallen, the columnist and television star, recently had something pleasant to say about newspapers as reading matter.

"You can read on a train crossing the desert or on a plane at 17,000 feet above the Atlantic—no static, no fading, no blips," says Miss Kilgallen. "You can read in a bathtub or while hanging onto a pole in a crowded bus. You can read as much or as little as you want, as fast or as slowly as you want.

"And if you read something you like, you can tear it out and save it to read again some day. I enjoy radio and television, and I am gainfully employed by both, but I must admit they have their drawbacks. Did you ever try to clip a television program and past it in your scrapbook?"

Here's why the newspaper holds its dominant place in the homes and hearts of Americans. And here is why—to touch on the world of commerce from which all of us draw our livings—the newspaper remains an unsurpassed means of advertising goods and services.

Conservation Farming In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston
Soil Conservation Service

The wet summer is not only making haying a problem, but is also preventing work on many conservation projects that are ready to go.

Harold Shaw Jr. of Paris has a large sod waterway and pond that he hopes to construct this year. We have also completed a survey for a pond at the Oscar Tikander farm in Paris. C S Barrows and Son of Oxford have a waterway that is nearly completed and we are just waiting for the water to slow down a bit. Clarence Everett of Welchville has a drainage project on his farm that we hope to start on very soon. Benny Cyr and Son of Waterford have an area in which they hope to construct a pond in the near future.

We also just completed a survey for a large diversion ditch and sod waterway on the Arthur McKeen farm in Norway.

Archie Purkis of Buckfield has a large sod waterway to construct in his orchard.

There are many other conservation projects planned and we only hope that conditions will be right for early construction so that a good sod can be established on the areas before the fall rains come.

The college that has since become the University of Maine accepted its first students in 1868.

MAINE FARMERS REAP $47 MILLION PER YEAR FROM WOODLOT HARVESTS

Maine's forest industries provide farmers in the state with a market for more than $47 million worth of forest products harvested from farm woodlots annually.

In addition, the state's farmers are using huge volumes of timber from their woodlots for construction of their own homes, barns, fences and pens.

Citing figures from the U. S. Department of Agriculture's newest agricultural census, E L Giddings of Great Works, chairman of the Maine committee of American Forest Products Industries, said the vast market for farm woodlot products in Maine reflects the growing importance of good timberland management and forest fire protection.

Giddings committee is state sponsor, with cooperation of the Maine Forest Service, of the Tree Farm program, a movement to encourage the protection and proper care of privately owned, taxpaying forest land and the harvest of tree crops in a manner which will insure continuous forest growth. The program is sponsored nationally by American Forest Products Industries, Washington, D. C.

The chairman predicted that sales of forest products from Maine farm woodlots, up nearly 5 per cent since 1949, will expand rapidly as the concept of tree farming—growing timber as a crop—takes hold in public consciousness.

Counties in which sales of woodlot products exceed $350,000 are Aroostook, Franklin, Oxford, Penobscot, Somerset, Waldo and Washington.

Childress, Texas, Reporter: "An American and a Dutchman were talking. 'What does you flag look like?' asked the American. 'It has 3 stripes,' replied the Dutchman, 'red, white and blue. We say they have a connection with our taxes: we get red when we talk about them, white we we get our tax bills, and pay 'till we're blue in the face.' 'That's just how it is here,' commented the American, 'only we see stars too.'"

SLOW DOWN AND LIVE!

"Easy does it" Slow down and live!

This bit of advice was offered to Maine motorists today by our Governor's Committee on Highway Safety. The committee pointed out that drivers can get a lot more pleasure out of the use of their cars by learning at moderate, even-tempered speeds.

"The tensions which are created by high speed driving keep us from getting real enjoyment out of automobile trips" said the committee. "In addition the possibility of becoming involved in an accident is greatly increased and in case of an accident the chance of emerging with relatively minor damage is very slight.

"Why not also prevent the heartbreaking tragedies the committee points out. Protect your own life and the lives of those with you and greatly decrease the possibility that you may be responsible for the injury or death of other highway users.

Bethel Wins Third League Game Over Norway

Our Indians defeated Norway at West Bethel Tuesday evening 4 to 3 in an exciting game. It was scoreless up until the 4th inning when the visitors scored twice and once in the sixth. Bethel went scoreless until the 6th when they scored three times and one in the 7th to win. Jodrey twirled a nice game for the Indians allowing 7 hits. Norway's hurler, Cordwell, only gave out 5 hits in a nice chore for the visitors. Tilley and Cordwell were the leading hitters for Norway. Hutchins and Calway hit well for the local team.

EDITORIAL NOTE

The advertisement on safe driving on page three is directed to the attention of young drivers, as it should be. It is our opinion however that the behavior of these younger people, especially their driving habits, would be much better if the older folks improved their driving practices. A few of our local people show a most glaring disregard of others' rights and seem to consider only their own convenience. The utter disregard of traffic rules by these few drivers not only results in confusion for others but serves as a poor example for inexperienced drivers.

News of 4-H CLUBS

The Lucky Clover 4-H Club held a regular meeting at the home of their leader, Mrs Marguerite Bartlett, on July 12, with several members present. There will be a square dance at the East Bethel Grange Hall, July 21, at 8:00 until 11:00. There will be drinks and sandwiches. The next meeting will be August 7 at the leader's home. —Club Reporter, Serena Coolidge.

On July 16, 1956, the Happy Herdsmen 4-H Club met at Betsy Chapman's. We then went over to Harold Bennett's farm where we judged some dairy cows. We then held our business meeting. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and accepted. We discussed our plans for the Bazaar and committees were heard from. It was decided not to enter any cows in the Windsor Dairy Show. The meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. We meet again on July 30.—Reporter, Stanley Moore.

BETHEL JUNIOR BASEBALL

Norway 8—Red Sox 3

Plagued by errors and lack of hitting the Bethel Midgets were easy prey for Norway Thursday evening.

Norway moved out front from the start and was never pressed. The score was gapped by three runs at its closest point. Norway slugger, T Noyes, hit a home run well over the center field fence. Batteries for the game were, for Bethel: Newell and Merrill; for Norway: Truman, Noyes and Guilford.

Leading hitters for the Red Sox are: Charles Newell, .500; Peter Davis, .400; Nelson Smith, .333.

Maurice Brooks has taken over the Yankees, which is the youngest players in the Midgets Club. Practice for this group will be every Friday night unless players are notified otherwise. It is hoped that games between the first farm team (Braves) and also among themselves will stimulate more interest for these youngsters.

We, the managing and coaching staff are extremely proud of the support of the Bethel townspeople especially the business group. We are the only club in the circuit, to our knowledge, that has its own dugout and refreshment stand.

We have game schedules available for donations to the club. These schedules make you an active supporter of: The Indians; the Red Sox; the Braves (1st farm team); the Yankees (2nd farm term).

Your county Extension Service office is the place to go for information on agriculture or homemaking. Each Maine county has an office serving it.
